
Boarding Kennels :

PDF Created with S CATTERY 7 642 115
CATTERY 673126
CATTERY 780508
NNELS s 0144 872002
NNELS 511260
NNELS & CATTERY 01442 851225
NNELS 07 283 601
NNELS 32 78 49
CATTERY 004 706
CATTERY 20 8455 3422
992 522 183
NNELS 65560
NNELS 31234

Choosing a Kennel

Some dogs love being kept surrounded by other dogs can. These dogs come out of kennel shape and are anxious to return. They do not eat well and lose condition. To minimise the stress of kennel, here are a few points to look out for:

- 1 All dogs should be exercised preferably separately or in compatible groups
- 2 All kennels should have a shelter that is cool in the summer and warm in winter
- 3 No dogs should be able to jump over the fence to nose.
- 4 Kennels should be properly disinfected after each occasion. Kennels should be made of non-porous materials
- 5 Acceptance should be made for special diets or medication. There should be a plan for seeing a veterinarian if necessary.
- 6 Only dogs with a current vaccination should be accepted. Kennel Cough should be accepted.
- 7 Clinical cleanliness may vary but is likely to be better in a kennel than at home.

Do not forget to check your dog's vaccinations are up to date before taking them to kenneling.

◇

ng a Cattery

Some principles of choosing a kennels ng a cattery. Catteries, however are establishments, sometimes in built up e M25. Space constraints can lead being boarded in kennels within a s is undesirable both for the ransmission of cat 'flu and lack of exercise. The following should be l be housed in individual "chalets" ed run

d not be able to sneeze upon d be no non-sterilisable furniture or kennel
d not mix together or follow each n exercise area.
should not be mixed up more modern "Cat Hotels" are quite is on a special diet or medication make sure the e happy to continue the

You may need to supply food.

◇

Boarding Your Pet

Hamilton Pet Clinic
110 Boundary Road
St. John's Wood NW8 020

Park Pet Clinic
116 Regents Park Road
Finchley N3 020

Primrose Hill Pet Clinic
138 Gloucester Avenue
NW1 020

◇